Hi Joe,

Since you are taking on the search for airplanes, I'll let you know how far I got in my search. I spoke with Lorraine Bohannon, who works at Mass Aeronautics Commission. Her number is REDACTED Her email address is

REDACTED

Lorraine looked into my request and spoke with her boss, Bob Welch, who is the Executive Director of the MAC and the only 'boneyard' of airplane scraps that he knows of is at Davis-Monthan Air force Base in Tucson, AZ. Lorraine faxed me some information from the Davis-Monthan website, www.dm.af.mil/. Their general phone number is REDACTED and their public affairs office # is REDACTED. She suggests contacting the air force base, as they may be able to point you in the right direction.

Good luck!
Bridget

Sounds like a fine plan.

Here is my mega thought. To make this project great, and do-able, we need to be very, very clever about finding and bringing into the gallery a high volume of usable props. The more ready-made "junk" we can locate, and haul in, the less pressure on new construction (which I know we will not altogether avoid).

After we get a handle on the kinds of junk he wants, we'll divide up. I'll take on airplanes. Someone else will take on RV's. Someone else will do mobile homes (or sections of mobile homes). Someone else will do furnishings. We'll each get a $734.21 budget for our respective categories, and will have a contest to see who can sniff out and retrieve the most interesting stuff, for the least amount of money, by a specific date.

Christoph arrives Monday night and will be at the museum on Tuesday. He is bringing his girlfriend to assist. Due to the Ping de-Install of Pharmacy, I am going to work primarily with Christoph the first week. His gallerist Michelle Maccarone will be here the 20th to the 23rd working with us to help conceptualize the project. I think she will actually be an asset for us.

We should all meet at 2:30 on Thursday the 24th in order to get a handle of what he is thinking. I will put that in the schedule.

The goal of the first week will be to conceptualize the project.

The following week, Dante and Richard are going to help out. That is the week I think we should get the truck (we need to reserve) and go shopping. We should set up specific places to visit.

The goal of the second week will be to start working on his project. His last day on site is Thursday September 31st, so we should have a meeting that day as well.
